AT THE LAST.

A little one played among the flowers,
In the bluish and bloom of summer hours,
She twined the buds in a garland fair,
And bound them up in her shining hair.
"Ah, me," said she, "how happy I'll be,
When ten years more have gone over me.
And I am a maiden, with youth's bright glow,
Flushing my cheek and lighting my brow!"

A maiden mused in a pleasant room,
Where the air was filled with a soft perfume;
Vases were near of antique mold,
Beautiful pictures pure and old,
And she, of all the loveliness there,
Was by far the loveliest and most fair.
"Ah, me!" sighed she, "how happy I'll be,
When my heart's true love comes home to me;
Light of my life, my spirit's pride,
I count the days till thou reach my side."

A mother bends over a cradle nest,
Where she soothed her babe to its smiling rest.
"Sleep well," she murmured soft and low,
And she pressed her kisses on his brow.
"Oh, child, sweet child, how happy I'll be,
If the good God lets me stay with me,
Till later on, in life's evening hour,
They stand on my head in hope and power."

An aged one sat by the glowing hearth,
Almost ready to leave the earth;
Feeble and frail, the race she had run
Had borne her along, to the setting sun.
"Ah, me!" sighed she, in an undertone,
"How happy I'll be when life is done!
When the world folds out with its weary strife,
And I soar away to a better life."

'Tis time we journey from youth to age,
Longing to turn to another page.
Striving to hasten the year away,
Lighting our hearts with the future ray:
Hoping in earth till its visions fade,
Wishing and waiting through sun and shade;
Toiling, when earth's last tie is riven,
To the beautiful rest that remaineth Heaven.

MARGARET.

BY N. EVENE.

MARGARET ORTON was the playmate of my girlhood; my playmate but not exactly my friend, for I will frankly admit that I was jealous of her. I did not like to have my father pet her and call her "Sunbeam," although the shining waves of her golden hair suggested the name naturally enough. I did not like it when she, with her gentle, lady-like ways, became so much more of a favorite than myself, the madcap of the village. I did not like it when she, so thoughtful and studious, captured all the prizes at school, and I, careless and mischief-making, got none.

When we were both fifteen we were sent to a fashionable boarding school to complete our education. Here at home I was one of a coterie of merry girls who did say amount of mischief, got into scrapes by the wholesale, and received as just reward punishments severe and demerits. Meantime Margaret, who was too conscientious to abuse her advantages, studied hard and gained the respect of her teachers. So passed away the first half-year.

At the beginning of the second term, we were startled by the announcement that to the young lady whose general deportment should be the most nearly perfect for the remainder of the year, would be given, as a reward, a handsome locket of Etruscan gold, set with finely cut cameos. Of course this was the all-absorbing topic of conversation for a few days. On every staircase and in every hall of the seminary might be seen groups of girls, some wishing for this one, and some for that one, to be the lucky person; but the general opinion was that of course the locket would be suspended from Margaret Orton's throat.

When the prize was first offered I did not think of being one of the contestants; but my first letter from papa after writing home, was a request that I should try for the prize, and offering as a double reward in case I should be successful, a lovely gold watch and chain, something which I had long desired.

When I announced my intention of trying for the locket there was quite a buzz among my circle of girl friends. They looked to persuade me that it would be impossible for me to observe all the rules; but in vain. After my decision to enter the lists, I really tried to be perfect in deportment, and studied much harder than I had done the preceding term. Teachers and principal began to regard me with a kind of pleased surprise; and the girls to think that after all it was not so impossible for a perfect madcap to become one of the model girls of the school. After the first month many who were among the competitors dropped off; and by the first of the last month of the session it was apparent to all that the prize lay between Margaret and myself.

We were each required to report our own misdoings, but it was expected that our teachers would discover them. As a rule they were very successful; still there was a considerable amount of mischief perpetrated, the authors of which were never sharp-sighted teachers never discovered.

One night, after studying hours, Jamie Bonner and I were sitting by the fire in my room. We had been having a merry time, and both of us were in a mood to do some mischief. We each suggested several things, but could think of nothing new. At last Jamie proposed that, after everything was quiet, for the night, we should ring the seminary bell. This was a daring idea, for, being the largest bell in town, it was usually rung to raise an alarm in case of fire, and the punishment inflicted upon any girl who dared to ring it "just for a joke" was expulsion. This may seem a rather severe punishment for a misdemeanor apparently so trifling, but when you think of a whole town aroused in the middle of the night, it was not so small a matter after all.

At first I would not consent to this, on account of my position in regard to the prize, but Jane insisted that it could be arranged so there would be no chance of discovery, and so long as I was not discovered there would be nothing dishonorable in it. So, being naturally inclined to just such a scrape, I permitted myself to be persuaded to attempt it. But how?

Jamie's fertile mind soon overcame all difficulties. At the end of our hall was an outside door, which had opened onto a small balcony; this balcony was now torn away, as the building was undergoing repairs. A chimney near the door was also partially torn down, and a ladder, used by the workmen during the day, was still standing by it. Jamie's plan was this—to open the door by means of her wardrobe key, which fitted the lock exactly, and ascend the ladder until we came to where the chimney had been torn off, where there was room for opening into a small empty room on the third floor. In this room was a closet connecting the clothes room with the main hall on that floor. Nothing would be easier, when everything was still, than to slip off our shoes softly, open the door, and climb to the clothes room; open the door of the closet, communicating with the hall, and reach the bell rope, which passed down near the door.

The hour for retiring was 10 o'clock. At that time we blew out the lamp and covered the fire as usual. We waited half an hour, time enough, we thought, for everyone to be asleep, then stole from my room, and in a few moments stood silent in the clothes room. What was that? We certainly heard something; but it was only a window rattled by the wind, and we were safe for the present at least.

It had been decided that I should ring the bell. After grouping in the dark for a few minutes, I found the latch. It opened easily. I crept carefully through the dark closet and felt for the knob on the door; with a loud click it flew open. That certainly was a step on the stairs just across the hall. I shrank back into the closet and listened a moment, but hearing nothing more, reached out, caught the bell rope, and rang it with all my might. Just as I ceased ringing and drew the door back, a light step passed hastily down the stairs. Could it be that someone had been there all the time?

By this time I could hear doors opening and voices calling in the corridor below, girls were rushing into the halls, and the sooner I could get back to my room the better. Janie was already in the lower hall, and in a few seconds I stood safe within my own room. Hastily throwing myself into bed in a rapture, and thrusting my stockinged feet into slippers, and last of all assuming an as thoroughly alarmed expression as was possible under the circumstances, I opened my door, and anxiously inquired of my next-door-neighbor, "Where is the fire? Is there and danger?"

Our joke had succeeded admirably. The halls were filled with girls clad in their night-dresses, hurrying to and fro and wring their hands in terror. Below, in the streets, doors were opening, and people rushing out to aid in suppressing the fire; but it was not long before they discovered that they were the victims of a joke. The people in no pleasant mood returned to their comfortable beds, and a few imperative strokes of the bell marched us to our rooms. I was soon asleep, and no thought of the mischief I had done haunted my dreams.

The next morning while we were at breakfast, to my surprise, Miss Bayard made no remark concerning the episode of the previous night. As we ascended the stairs from the dining room, Janie clasped my arm tightly, and her voice trembled as she said:

"Oh Mabel! What do you think will come of this? You know you heard someone on the stairs. Can anyone suspect us? I thought surely Miss Bayard would say something concerning it at breakfast, but you know it passed off as quiet as a storm, and what if Miss Bayard knows, and we are to be sent home? It would break Mamma's heart!"

"Why, Janie, you little goose, it was are careful they will never suspect us. But if you are going to be so exolted and frightened as this, you are sure to bestray us. You did not ring the bell; so you will not be expelled anyway, and if you will not keep us, neither of us will. I do wonder, though, who that was on the stairs."

By this we had reached Janie's room where we separated as usual, for our rooms could be put in order before the ringing of the chapel bell. I was careful to stop at Janie's door for her, as I went to chapel, and as we hurried up stairs I whispered, "something will certainly be said before classes are dismissed. Do just as I do, and don't be frightened."

Then we hurried into the chapel. Janie and I sat together in the farthest corner of the room, and that morning I was glad that it was so.

When everyone was seated Miss Bayard tapped the bell. My heart gave one quick thump, but she only opened her book to roll call as usual. After that she read a chapter; the morning hymn was sung, then prayer, just as it was every morning. What could it all mean? Could it be possible that she would let such a grave offense pass without even a reprimand? No, for instead of dismissing the classes, Miss Bayard rose slowly and seemingly from her seat, and stood for a moment without speaking. Then in a very grave voice she broke that dreadful silence.

"Young ladies," she said, "I cannot express to you my grief and surprise, at having one of my most rigid rules broken in the manner it was last night. You all know the severe penalty attached to the breaking of that rule, and I did not think there was a young lady here who would willingly cause her parents the pain and mortification of having a child expelled from school and sent home in disgrace; for much as it may pain me to do so, I shall be obliged to expel the guilty person or persons, in case they are discovered,"—I turned a little freer, as this did not yet know who it was—"which I am sure they will be. All the young ladies who have no knowledge, whatever, of the affair, will please rise to their feet."

My first impulse was to rise with the others, and, indeed, I did rise to my feet. Then I thought, but it would be what it would, I would not act a lie; so I sat down immediately, dragging Janie with me.

When the girls took their seats the room seemed to reel before my eyes, for of course we would be called upon to tell what we knew. But no, it was Margaret whom Miss Bayard was regarding with a look of pain and surprise.

"Margaret, I believe you are the only one who kept her seat." (Our dark corner had prevented our being noticed.) Please come here in front of my desk, and tell what you know."

Margaret's face was perfectly colorless as she rose from her seat.

"Did you ring the bell?"

"No, ma'am."

"What is it you to tell us, then?"

"Nothing more."

"You confess that you know something about the matter. You say that you did not ring the bell yourself. Do you mean that you possess knowledge which you will keep from me?"

Margaret was paler than ever now. Her lips were compressed into a straight line. Her only reply was a slight bow.

A shade of impatience passed over Miss Bayard's face. "You have been one of my best pupils, and I am unwilling to believe that you would willfully break one of the rules of the school. Yet your conduct is incomprehensible. You are excused to go to your room until afternoon, when I shall see you again. The classes will now take their places."

I cannot describe my feelings during that conversation. It was Margaret who had been on the stairs! What should I do? Step forward and confess my share in the mischief, or let things take their course? Visions of the locket and the long-coveted watch floated before eyes and I was dumb. For a moment the thought entered my mind—with this shadow over her, Margaret would be successful in obtaining the prize, for once I shall be the victor;—but, thank Heaven, it was only for a moment. They certainly could not punish her without proof of her guilt, and that they could not obtain. After trying the matter in a way satisfactory to my conscience, I resumed my every-day school duties, but what a long dreary day it seemed!

In the afternoon I saw Miss Bayard enter Margaret's room; later in the evening a meeting of the faculty was held in the office, and someone said they had seen a teacher go for Margaret.

After I went to my room for the night I felt so miserable that I decided to go to Margaret and beg her forgiveness. I all she must have suffered. After that it would be easier for me to tell Miss Bayard. But I went to Margaret's door and rapped; there was no response. Again I rapped; still no response. I turned the knob softly; it was locked. Perhaps she was not in her room, or else she was sleeping; so, determined to go to her I ran downstairs and tell her all, I again sought my own room. My heart felt lighter than it had all day, for I intended to free Margaret from all suspicion, at any cost to myself.

I rose early the next morning, and as soon as I completed my toilet, went again to her room, and again there was no response to my repeated rapping. What could it mean? While I was standing there undecided as to what I should do, the door of the adjoining room was opened, and the inmate looked out. There was something, I knew not what, in the look that half paralyzed me for what was to follow.

"Mabel Orton, what do you mean by standing there so long?" Perhaps noting my puzzled face she stammered, "It is possible that you do not know?"

"Do not know what?" I cried, my heart in a tumult. "Do not know what?" hearing my voice, rushed out, and I was led half unconscious to my room.

Yes, I startled now Margaret had been sent home. The efforts of Miss Bayard and all her teachers had been in vain, so far as getting Margaret to tell anything was concerned. She confessed that she knew something of the matter, but that she would see the ringing of the chapel bell. I was careful to stop at Janie's door for her, as I went to chapel, and as we hurried up stairs I whispered, "something will certainly be said before classes are dismissed. Do just as I do, and don't be frightened."

Then we hurried into the chapel. Janie and I sat together in the farthest corner of the room, and that morning I was glad that it was so.

TEMPERANCE.

THE CONTEST FOR SOBRIETY FORTY YEARS AGO.

A Lecture, the Arguments of Which Are as Applicable Now as They Were Then.

A Prophesy as to the Status of Temperance in 1900.

BY H. D. TAYLOR.

I said I joined only as a seeker. I did not then believe, nor do I now, that the Sons of Temperance alone and unaided can effect any great moral reform, but I still looked upon the order as capable of doing much good. It could snatch many brands from the burning lake of intemperance, and to snatch the darling child of one loud parent from that fate was a glorious pay, for all the expense, all the trouble, all the odium that could ever fall to the lot of a Son of Temperance. I saw, too, that this institution would serve as a kind of West Point Academy in which our boys could be trained to the right consideration of public service, of course I would be bound right here to drop the argument, but I will not do them the injustice to presume they would be guilty of such effrontery, and will continue by asking the question: Is not the right to retail ardent spirits granted to one or two classes of men, while all other classes are prohibited from doing so on "exclusive separate principles?"

A, because he has grown fat and can buy himself a stock of goods and turn merchant, is to have the exclusive privilege of dealing in liquors, the protection of which are enormous, while I, who is a poor widow with a helpless family of children, and can only raise three dimes, one of which she gives for ginger, the other for molasses, and the third for flour, and prepares a basket of ginger-snaps for sale, I must kneel down on the public square and sell her dry bread, and not be allowed to sell a single gill of liquor to wash it down with.

Right here, gentlemen, I will relate an occurrence that I once witnessed in an adjoining county: A poor old woman, dressed in faded and threadbare garments, was before the court on trial for retailing ardent spirits by the small. The proof was that she was very poor, that she had come upon the muster-field with a basket of bread and a little liquor to wet it with, and had sold it. The court, from the proof as it then stood, could do nothing less than fine her. I confess that for once in my life I felt myself to be a defender of the liquor law. I picked up the presentment and found that she had been charged with selling whisky. I asked the commonwealth witness what kind of liquor she had sold, and he replied that it was apple brandy. Here, then, was a variation between the proof and the offense charged, and the old woman was acquitted. Now, what a beautiful commentary was this case upon the wisdom, justice and mercy of our laws. The offender escaped punishment, as three-fourths of the offenders who are brought to trial for this offense do, upon a mere sciuetese, technicality quibble. And that offender was a poor old widow in rags, whilst numbers of men in the same county had been committing the same offense all their lives with impunity, and were now rolling in wealth and splendor, driving about with their wives and children in fine carriages. And perhaps that poor woman's husband had once been wealthy, but had spent his fortune in half-pints with those very men; yet some volunteered to be a lawyer in her defense.

The Parent of Insomnia.

The parent of insomnia or wakefulness is in nine cases out of ten a dyspeptic stomach. Good digestion gives sound sleep, indigestion interferes with it. The brain and stomach sympathize. One of the prominent symptoms of a weak state of the gastric organs is a disturbance of the great nerve cutrepot, the brain. Invigorate the stomach, and you restore equilibrium to the great centre. A most reliable medicine for the purpose is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is far preferable to mineral sedatives and powerful narcotics, which, though they may for a time exert a soporific influence upon the brain, soon cease to act, and invariably injure the tone of the stomach. The Bitters, on the contrary, restore activity to the operations of that all important organ, and their beneficent influence is reflected in sound sleep and a tranquil state of the nervous system. A wholesome impetus is likewise given to the action of the liver and bowels by its use. nov

Tell me not in mournful numbers that pills cannot be cured. Use Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment and experience the permanent cure which is always effected by its prescription. There are numerous so-called remedies; only one Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment good for pile only, but so good for that disease that all sufferers with it need only use the great remedy.

Whatever name or designation is given to Fever and Ague, or other intermittent disease it is safe to say that Malaria or a disordered state of the Liver is fault. Eliminate the impurities from the system and a sure and prompt cure is the immediate result. Prickly Ash Bitters is the safest and most effective remedy for all biliary troubles, kidney diseases, and like complaints that has ever been brought before the public. A trial is its best recommendation. 42 tm

HARTFORD WEEKLY HERALD.

JNO. P. BARRETT.....Pub. and Prop.
JNO. O'FLAHERTY.....Editor.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 17.

VALEDICTORY.

To the Friends and Patrons of the Hartford Herald:

With this issue of the HERALD, my connection with it ceases. I have sold the entire property to Messrs. M. H. Rhoads and Frank L. Felix, including its appurtenances and franchises.

I have been impelled to this course on account of my continued ill health, which has rendered me for a long time unable to give it such attention as it deserved. In severing my connection with the HERALD, I point with commendable pride to the fact, that, having founded the HERALD under the most adverse circumstances, I have maintained its continuous publication, with one or two exceptions, to the present time; and during that time, have used every energy, and what of ability I possessed, to give the people of Ohio county a paper worthy of their intelligence and support.

To those who have stood by the HERALD through its various vicissitudes, it would be ungrateful in me to fail to tender them the expression of my most profound regard. Our connection indeed has been of the most agreeable character, and I hope they will continue their friendship and appreciation unbroken to the new firm, Messrs. Rhoads and Felix.

These gentlemen are determined to make the HERALD the equal of the best county paper in the State; they are peculiarly adapted to succeed in the various channels of reputable journalism, being gentlemen of culture, energy and moral worth.

The new firm will carry out in good faith, all the pledges and contracts of the old firm, and the patrons of the HERALD need entertain no doubt of their ability to do so.

All accounts, and other claims due the HERALD up to this date, are payable to me.

I cannot close this valedictory and sever my connection with the paper, without tendering my sincere thanks to Judge John O'Flaherty. For several months past, he has virtually edited the HERALD and conducted the business of the office, and it is unnecessary for me to add that he has made the HERALD a bright, newsy paper. He is one of the best newspaper men in the State, and but for his assistance, the patrons would have been deprived of the benefits of a live, wide-awake, local paper for the past nine months.

With great, good wishes for all concerned, and hoping that the coming years may be happy and prosperous, I make my final bow and retire from the field of newspaper labor.

JOHN P. BARRETT.

OUR REVERSES.

The failure of the people to heartily respond to the demands of Democratic leaders in the late election is principally due to the growing intelligence of the masses. A large majority of the people generally, or that portion which is called "rank and file" of the party, is as well informed in the science of government, and has as comprehensive ideas of the principles of political economy, as have the so-called leaders themselves.

Ex-Senator McDonald in exploiting the great tidal wave which came so near engulphing the Democratic ship, attributes the disaster to the "stay-at-homes." This may be true, and probably is, if it is the real reason; if it is to be taken as the absolute cause why districts having 6,000 to 10,000 Democratic majority, returned Republicans, as in the case of Frank Hurd and Morrison, or giving a bare majority, as in the case of Asher Caruth, or in reducing 6,000 to 800, as in the case of Carlisle, it only shows the superficial character of the observations usually made by the accidental leaders of the Democratic party. The simplest dictates of common sense would seem to indicate that there were good reasons for staying at home. Among these reasons, we hesitate not to mention the utter indifference of the people as to the success, or defeat of leaders, who had no particular opinions to express, or having opinions, merely announced heresies, and not party doctrines.

The free trade vaporings of Hurd, the horizontal hallucinations of Morrison, the more than puerile opposition to Federal aid by Carlisle, the protection heresy by others, the timeserving, political trimming and hedging, and general cowardice with every whim and grade of opinion, so disgusted the people that the conclusion was easily arrived at that, the relegation of these imitators of the great to private life would be no irretrievable loss.

The people are greater, and more conservative than their parties, and for that reason are, individually, opposed to extremes, and but for the occasional party pressure brought to bear would more frequently abandon the ignorant and extreme leaders for defeat. The conservation of the masses is opposed alike to the false statesmanship involved in the free trade dogma, and to the class legislation of a purely protective tariff.

A uniform reduction of the tariff, with what incidental protection such reduction offers is the only tariff proposition, which will satisfy the people, hence a business like view must be taken of the question, there are many articles on the schedule, which might well be let alone, without any detriment to the interests of the laboring classes, or the general consumer; there are other articles which can bear very great reduction, and at the same time be sufficiently remunerative to the manufacturer. This view of the matter does not comport with any proposition to make a horizontal reduction, and in this regard, Mr. Morrison failed to meet the requirements of the public, and to such failure he may justly trace his defeat, it is but the logical sequence of an attempt to perform a political absurdity. Mr. Hurd may concoct causes without end, the only satisfactory reason, which can be assigned for his former and recent defeat is, that the people of his district do not indorse his business methods or his opinion on a question which they understand as well as he. Had Mr. Carlisle been silent on the matter of Federal aid, which was not, and is not made a test of party fealty, his majority would have been greater. To similar causes may be attributed the many reverses of the recent elections. It is time to call a halt, right about, and be in accord with the popular will.

THE MEANING CLEAR.

If this end of the State wants to send Hon. Henry D. McHenry to the Federal Senate, it must first send men to the Legislature who cannot be purchased by Bluegrass money, nor enticed by smooth-tongued demagogues. A glance back at several sensational elections beginning with that of 1875, will disclose our meaning.—Covington Courier.

This reads the stories of bribery which were so freely circulated after the Senatorial caucus which nominated Joe Blackburn. It was boldly charged that a Representative from a Second district county sold his vote for $800, a Senator from a Third district county for $2,500 and a Representative from a First district county for $2,000. Many similar charges were made, the names and figures being given, and no denials were ever offered.—Owensboro Messenger.

In the first place, no better man from this end of the State, nor indeed, from any other end, than Hon. H. D. McHenry, can be sent to the United States Senate. In the second place, this whole section should make common cause against the presumed greatness of the Bluegrass, Southern Kentucky has been by the dozen, the peers of the greatest and best of any other part of the State.

HON. H. D. McHENRY.

The Oldham county, Lagrange Herald, after quoting what the Breckenridge News and the Hartford HERALD say about our townsman in connection with the United States Senatorship, says:

"We concur with the above. Mr. McHenry has been a member of the National Democratic Committee for several years, an office of much trust, with no compensation, and one which he has filled to the benefit and entire satisfaction of the party.

He was tendered the office of Assistant Postmaster General by President Cleveland, but declined the office because, by accepting it, he would thereby probably jeopardize the chances of a younger Kentuckian, who was seeking appointment under another office at the hands of the President.

This is only one incident among many that could be given to show the entire unselfishness of this noble Kentucky gentleman."

THAT BUTLER BOY.

Mr. J. D. Bender, the efficient clerk of the Morgantown Circuit Court, has employed a deputy lately, in the person of a 12 pound boy. We know he is happy, and tender him our congratulations.

HENS FOR PROFIT.

We have received from I. S. Johnson, & Co., Boston, Mass., a copy of The Farmer's Poultry Raising Guide, price 25 cents. It should be in the hands of every farmer.

THE Courier-Journal is complaining because the President has fallen in love with with the Massachusetts Democrats. We have no doubt that the Executive was delighted with his visit, and if the Louisville paper would behave itself, the President might send Daniel Lamont over to tell it something pleasant—for instance, that it might control a postoffice in Breathitt county. The Courier-Journal should not make such a display of its jealousy.

COL. HENRY WATTERSON has returned from his European tour. The reporters of the New York Herald, and the Sun, waylaid him, and forced from him an expression of opinion on current politics. Mr. Watterson planted himself squarely on low tariff as opposed to free trade and protection. He understands the people better than those who have been active participants in politics during his absence. His clear head and master-hand are sorely needed on the Courier-Journal.

Our people should read the notice of the committee appointed to send provisions to Texas. Large or small quantities will be taken. The citizens of San Saba county are in a deplorable condition; years of drouth have exhausted every means of support. The Lord has blessed us with plenty, and from our abundance we should contribute liberally. Answer the call. Send what you can to the committee.

White Flakes in Blinding Masses.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The severest snowstorm which prevailed throughout this State and New England yesterday afternoon reached here this afternoon. The wind is blowing half a gale, and the white flakes are now falling in blinding masses, but only in melt as soon as they reach the ground. Incoming trains from the North and West are somewhat delayed, but as yet not seriously.

Advices from all sections of the State show no abatement to the storm, and should it continue through the night a serious blockade will occur. Serious fears are feared in many parts of the State should the snow melt rapidly.

The snow fall here lasted only a short time, and the flakes soon melted. The thermometer has fallen rapidly since sunset, and at midnight it is unusually cold for this season of the year, with a fierce gale blowing.

All Western Trains Delayed.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Nov. 13.—It has been raining, snowing and blowing for the past twenty-four hours. Considerable snow has fallen, but it melted very rapidly. Last night the wind tore down fences and stripped trees. The Hudson is unusually high. It is growing colder. All the Western trains are delayed.

Judge Montgomery's Majority.

[Special to the Louisville Journal.]

ELIZABETHTOWN, Nov. 12.—The official returns give Judge Montgomery a majority of 2,319 instead of 2 100, as published. Belden carried but one county, and his majority in that county was only 90.

Come Forward at Once.

By the will of the late W. Phipps I am directed to pay large sums of money, and in order to do so, I must urge those all persons indebted to said decedent to come forward without delay, as the claims must be collected, and you will save cost to make a note of this request. WM PHIPPS, Ex. tf

HARTFORD WEEKLY HERALD.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 17.

LOCAL NOTES.

"Sky-rocket"—a drink of mean whisky.

Martin is the "Boss" jeweler in this part of the State.

Martin is selling watches cheaper than any man in America.

An able article from Mr. Henry Tinsley, of Cerulea, is crowded out this week.

Mr. J. C. Riley has given a fresh coat of paint to his recently purchased residence.

The "Bracelet Bangle" is all the rage in town—look out for your dimes and dollars.

The people are rushing to get those tickets, and cheap goods, at T. M. Smith's.

Anderson's Bazaar will reduce the prices in their millinery department next Monday.

If the present rush continues at T. M. Smith's, goods by the train load will be ordered.

Don't forget to bring in your old clothes and have them put in running order for winter.

H. P. Taylor delivered 90 head of cattle at Uniontown last week. He received very fair prices.

The ice cream and soda water days have gone—but the saddest an yet to come—the "bracelet bangle" days.

A very interesting communication from Capt. S. K. Cox, was received too late for this issue, but will appear next week.

Of all the sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these, it might have been. Don't say that, but go to Smith's and get a ticket.

The misplaced cloak which we advertised some weeks ago, was promptly exchanged. The right cloak is now in possession of the proper owner.

If you get no ticket, you get no premium, and when you see your neighbor having that fine machine, won't you be sorry then? It's at T. M. Smith's.

Correspondents will confer a great favor upon the editor and types of this paper, by writing and punctuating as plainly as possible, dating and paragraphing their communications.

It will pay all our readers to peruse very carefully, the article elsewhere copied from the Scientific American, and dressed to that dispassionate paper, and reproduced herein because it is of very great value to everyone, containing some important scientific facts very plainly put.

Dr. J. S. Coleman has returned from Cardwville, at which place he had been conducting a protracted meeting. There were 22 additions to the church, 14 of them heads of families, the remainder have arrived at the age of maturity. Dr. Coleman is a powerful light at the kind reception of him by the people.

If you have anything to sell, or want to buy anything; if you have lost or found; if you are in a paying business, let the world know it by advertising in the HERALD. The HERALD goes everywhere, and is read by everbody. If the people don't see your name, they will think you are not in business and go elsewhere.

Our stock of ladies' hats, nothwithstanding the large sales of this fall, is still good. We propose to close them out at whatever they will bring. We are determined not to carry over any millinery, if we have to sell ladies' hats at twenty-five cents apiece. Our trimmer, Miss Black, will return to her home in Cincinnati in a few weeks. If you haven't yet supplied yourself with a hat, you ought to call before the choice goods have all been selected.

Thisbing appeals come from that blighted district and we hope Ohio county will not turn a deaf ear to these appeals.

Why The Maps Are Delayed.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11, 1886.

JOHN J. MCILHENY, Esq.:

DEAR SIR—We find that it will be impossible to make the drainage of your maps fit the base and we will be compelled, therefore, to draw it separately in stone. This will involve a slight delay in the completion of the work, and a little additional cost; we will, however, expedite it as much as possible and charge you merely the time employed in the drawing.

Yours, truly,

Sour Mash.

A gentleman came rushing into our sanctum recently, and said: "I want my paper stopped!" We noticed that he wasn't exactly right, and proceeded at once to erase his name. After we had succeeded in finding and demolishing his name, he made a rush for the door—yes, he pulled it to—and also pulled one hinge off the door and shook the plastering off of the ceiling. After recovering from a swoon, we inquired into the whichness of the wae, and found out that the gentleman had taken a drink of Owensboro sour mash; after which we were somewhat relieved. A man is likely to stop his paper, kill his grand-mother, or do anything else astonishing, when he gets on the outside of an Owensboro "sky-rocket."

CROMWELL DEPARTMENT.

THOS. GILLOTRAF.

Lest some of the readers of the HERALD might think that we were sleeping or had gone West, it is our pleasant duty to say that we are all here, doing a fair business, and in good health and moderately hopeful and happy.

Mr. Elmore Angles is going to Arkansas in a few days with the view of making it his future home.

Mr. James P. Miller met with a very painful if not dangerous accident one day last week while hauling saw-logs, accidentally getting one foot caught between two logs, so badly crushing it as to perhaps necessitate the amputation of some of his toes.

The only improvement we are able to note in Cromwell, is a shingle machine, established by Mr. Green Shepard.

Mr. Joseph Dennis, who has been a consumptive invalid for several years, died Saturday at the residence of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Lee Dennis, and was buried at the Dennis grave-yard, near No. 1 church, on Sunday.

Thus one by one we pass away,
Severed from all earthly ties,
To sleep in peace beneath the clay,
Till Gabriel's trumpet bids us rise.

Waller Letter.

Last spring, Wm. H. Hudson planted a half bushel of Irish potatoes, and after using them all the time, after they got large enough, he dug 11 bushels of fine potatoes, and found to his astonishment, when he was digging them, that they had commenced to make bridle bits, one potato having developed a full sized half of a bit, the two are still joined permanently together, and may be seen by calling at Waller. He said that the potatoes were dug while the vines were yet green and had they remained until fall, he was sure that he would have reaped quite a crop of potatoes and bridle-bits. The above named potato is quite a curiosity.

Messrs. R. B. Stewart, C. C. Hoover, J. H. Hoover and J. L. Hoover, have just returned from a weeks visit to Indiana. They went to attend a Baptist union meeting in Warrick Co. They report a splendid time, and much fun. R. B. Stewart brought a fine Jersey pig back with him.

Cornelius Hoover had a mule very badly snagged the other day by a stick, which the mule tramped on, one end flying up striking the mule. He is now in a fair way to recover.

Clear Run Society met and organized permanently Wednesday night, with a fine prospect for a grand success.

Cornelius Hoover, Sr., and Mrs. E. J Hoover, made a flying visit to relatives and friends, of McLean county, last week, returning Sunday. They report everything flourishing around Calhoun.

The grand offer made by the HERALD, should be heeded by every citizen of the county, and those who are not of the county, they should take advantage of such an offer at once, as it is a chance of a life-time. Just to think, of getting 45 books, and the grand old HERALD for one year, for the small sum of $2.00 is enough to induce everyone to subscribe at once, when the books are worth more than the amount asked for both. The people may never have another chance to get so much for such a small sum; beside all that, they will get a ticket in the Grand Gift Distribution also.

Success to the HERALD.

KENTUCKY.

False Ideas of the Pigmy Politicians --Kentucky's Crucial War Test-- Our Large per Capita, &c.

ROCKPORT, KY., Nov. 15th, '86.

Poor old Kentucky, she has waded through enough defamation to nauseate, the brawny statue recently unveiled on Bedloe's Island, whose nose is 3 feet and 7 inches long, $150,000,000 of her property was swept away by a war that prostrated her very spirit. This was a blow that reached the desire of wealth, and not only largely reduced the State revenue, but stunned those energies, upon which the State fund must depend.

Then, under the depressing influence of the panic of 1872, for which Republicanism with all its corrubted monetary power, is wholly responsible, $84,000,000 more disappeared, involving a loss to the State Treasury from '71 to '79, of $3,000,000, to say nothing of the loss to the people. These are items that even the honest critic, does not seem to take into consideration, when comparing us with Northern States, which not only never suffered any such losses, but on the contrary actually profited by the war.

Yet, we have pulled through it all, and now pay annually $18,420 for agricultural and mechanical purposes, $378,000 for public charity. (How many other States pay so much.) $514,000 to jurors, for prosecuting criminals, and county books, and $870,000 for public schools, (only three States in the Union pay as much per capita, many not half so much; others one-fourth, and many none at all.) Many a chronic growler may not be aware of it, but it is nevertheless true that, though we have been paying 52½ cents on the $100, less than 15 cents of the 52½ cents pays the running expenses of State government.

Thus, by a wise and economic policy of an absolutely, irreproachable Democratic administration, we have overcome the paralysis of Radical rule, maintained a front seat in point of school and public charity, and to-day bring up with a debt nearly $900,000 less than that of Muhlenberg county, $30,752,286 less than that of Massachusetts, who pays no school tax, has no Governor's mansion, and pays no witness, arrest, or juller's fees, whose gross annual revenue is $2,621,278 more than ours, and who was enriched by the war and subsequent class legislation.

Yet, turn where you will, you hear the puny wheezings of little political skinflints, thumb paper, and tom-tit demagogues, trying to tell you of what a dreadful fix the State is in. But when you ask them to trot out the facts, with a bill of particulars: "Oh! I just ain't got time. I'm just bound to go. It's getting late. But I'll blow you up the very next time I see you." Blow the dog's foot. It's the old thread-bare cry of "Wolf!" and they need a little tutorage in Amyclae. This would teach them to wait till they are hurt before they howl. A man will pay 47 cents on every $1 worth he buys, to protect a lot of infant industries away up in Pennsylvania and Massachusetts and believe its strictly business, but when he has to pay 15 cents on every $100 worth, and that to his own State, with which every real interest is identified, he kicks like a brance, bay steer.

Now, there is a world of "real hoss sense" in this, isn't there? I wish I had some tax to pay, I'd show the generous and truly patriotic spirit. Say I listed $35, and the taxman would say to me, "now here; it costs each inhabitant of New York city on an average of $36.40 for city government alone. Your State tax or that part of it which is used in running the government machinery, is just one cent." Why, I'd say, "certainly, there it is. Won't you have some more?"

If we don't want to pay 49 and nine-tenths per cent. of the 52½ cents levied upon each $100 worth, for common schools and the Agricultural and Mechanical colleges and a little over 57 per cent. of the remainder in payment of criminal costs, jurors' fees, and county records, $377,231.37 annually for public charity, then for the Lord's sake let us say so, and demand the repeal of the laws; and not charge the trouble upon State officials, who do the best they can under the law. There are some people in Kentucky whom I would not represent in the Legislature two minutes for $40,000, and if I were a candidate, I'd ask them to do all they could against me, on the principle that "the slander of some people is as great a recommendation as the praise of others."

Democratic, by the eternal, clean down to my toe-nails.

SUING A RAILROAD.

Property Holders in Henderson Who Are Aggrieved.

[Louisville Commercial.]

The suit brought by E. W. Reutlinger against the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company, which was tried by jury, was decided in favor of the plaintiff, awarding him $700 damages. This suit is the first of a number that are to be brought against the railroad company, and if the case stands as decided there will be no end to litigation. Mr. Reutlinger set forth in his petition that his property is situated on the corner of Fourth and Green streets, that since the bridge approach was built, the number of trains running by his property had increased threefold, and therefore, by reason of heavy shaking, cinders and smoke his residence property has been injured to the extent of $2,000, the amount sued for. There are several other suits on the docket of a like nature, brought by property owners on Fourth street. Several days before the calling of the case the railroad company offered Mr. Reutlinger $4,000 for his property if he would dismiss the suit. This he declined to accept. The company will appeal the case, and will abide by it as a test case.

Increase in Traffic.

[Louisville Courier-Journal.]

On account of the large amount of business moving there is a lack of freight cars on nearly all the railroads in the United States. Calls at the freight offices here show that the roads from this city are short of cars along with the others. The Cincinnati Southern the other day needed 25 cars here, and telegraphing for them, could not get them. Twenty car-loads of freight were refused for lack of them.

The Air-line, on its main stem and branches, lacks 200 or 300 needed to carry freely all freight offered. The Pennsylvania Company is reported every where short, and the total shortage probably reaches near a thousand cars. The Louisville and Nashville reports no very great shortage, but admit that business is sometimes delayed a day or two for lack of cars. The Chesapeake, Ohio and Southwestern, the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago, and the Ohio and Mississippi report a similar condition.

A shipper from a salt-producing point in New York, here the other day, states that at his place 150 car-loads were awaiting cars for shipment.

A Well-Known Physician.

During the year 1876 I was attacked with articular rheumatism—the effect of exposure to dampness and night air. I exhausted all the remedies known to our profession, including iodide of potash in various combinations, wine of colchicum, fluid extract of poke root, and various other preparations, including a patent potash preparation. I was also trented for several years by a number of our best physicians, but obtained no permanent relief. For nearly a year I was confined almost continuously to my bed, and could not attend to business of any kind. Being a practicing physician, I was somewhat prejudiced against patent medicines; but coming in contact with traveling salesmen almost every day, who with one accord recommended the S. S. S. to me, I finally concluded to try it. I commenced improving while using the first bottle, and when I had finished half a dozen bottles I was so much improved that I was able to walk about and attend to my business once more. I consider Swift's Specific the best tonic and alterative made, and I do not hesitate to prescribe it in all cases requiring a reliable blood purifier

If we had a whole dictionary of adjectives at our tongue's end to use in recommendation of Cousens's Honey of Tar, as a cure for coughs, colds and diseases of the throat and lungs, we would simply pick out the little word "best" and apply it sincerely to Cousens Honey of Tar, because it is the only permanent cure for a deep-seated cough or cold upon the lungs

SCIENTIFIC TRUTH.

REGARDING THE FUNCTIONS OF AN IMPORTANT ORGAN.

Of Which the Public Knows But Little. Worthy Careful Consideration.

To the Editor of the Scientific American:

Will you permit us to make known to the public the facts we have learned during the past 8 years, concerning disorders of the human Kidneys and the organ which diseased Kidneys so easily break down? You are conducting a Scientific paper, and are unprejudiced except in favor of TRUTH. It is needless to say, no medical Journal of "Code" standing would admit these facts, for very obvious reasons.

H. H. WARNER & CO.,
Proprietors of "Warner's Safe Cure"

That we may emphasize and clearly explain the relation the kidneys sustain to the general health, and how much is dependent upon them, we propose, metaphorically speaking, to take one from the human body, place it in the wash-bowl before us, and examine it for the public benefit.

You will imagine that we have before us a body shaped like a bean, smooth and glistening, about four inches in length, two in width, and one in thickness. It ordinarily weighs in the adult male, about five ounces, but is somewhat lighter in the female. A small organ? you say. But understand, the body of the average size man contains about ten quarts of blood, of which every drop passes through these filters or sewers, as they may be called, many times a day, as often as through the heart, making a complete revolution in three minutes. From the blood they separate the waste material, working away steadily night and day, sleeping or waking, tireless as the heart itself, and fully of as much vital importance, removing impurities from sixty-five gallons of blood each hour, or about forty-nine barrels each day, or 9,125 hogsheads a year! What a wonder that the kidneys can last any length of time under this prodigious strain, treated and neglected as they are?

We allow this delicate organ open legitimwise with our knife, and will roughly describe its interior.

We find it to be of a reddish-brown color, soft and easily torn; filled with hundreds of little tubes, short and thread-like, starting from the arteries, ending in a little tuft about midway from the outside opening into a cavity of considerable size, which is called the pelvis or, roughly speaking, a sac, which is for the purpose of holding the water to further undergo purification before it passes down from here into the ureters, and so on to the outside of the body. These little tubes are the filters which do their work automatically, and right here is where the disease of the kidney first begins

During the vast amount of work, which they are obliged to, from the slightest irregularity in our habits, from cold, from high living, from stimulants or a thousand and one other causes which occur every day, they become somewhat weakened in their nerve force.

What is the result? Congestion or stoppage of the current of blood in the small blood vessels surrounding them, which become blocked; these delicate membranes are irritated; inflammation is set up, then pus is formed, which collects in the pelvis or sac; the tubes are at first partially, and soon are totally, unable to do their work. The pelvis sac goes on distending with this corruption, pressing upon the blood vessels. All this time remember, the blood, which is entering the kidneys to be filtered, is PASSING THROUGH THIS TERRIBLE, DISINTEGRATING PUS, for it cannot take any other route!

Stop and think of it for a moment. Do you realize the importance, nay the vital necessity, of having the kidneys in order? Can you expect when they are diseased or obstructed no matter how little, that you can have PURE BLOOD AND ESCAPE DISEASE? It would be just as reasonable to expect, if a post-house were set across Broadway and countless thousands were compelled to go through its pestilential doors, to escape from contagion and disease, as for one to expect the blood to escape pollution when constantly running through a diseased kidney.

Now, what is the result? Why, that the kidney blood takes up and deposits this poison as it sweeps along into every organ, into every inch of muscle, tissue, flesh and bone, from your head to your feet. And whenever, from hereditary influence or otherwise, some part of the body is weaker than another, a countless train of diseases is established, such as consumption in weak lungs, dyspepsia, where is a delicate stomach; nervousness, insanity, paralysis or Bright's disease in those who have weak nerves.

THE HEART MUST SOON FEEL THE EFFECTS OF THE POISON, AS IT REQUIRES PURE BLOOD TO KEEP IT IN RIGHT ACTION.

It increases its stroke in number and force to supply compensate for the natural stimulus wanting. In its endeavor to crowd the impure blood through this obstruction, causing pain, palpitation, or an out-of-breath feeling. Unnatural as this forced labor is, the heart must soon fail or, becoming weakened weaker until one day SUDDENLY STOPS, and death from apparent "heart disease" is the verdict. But the medical profession, learned and dignified, call these diseases by high sounding names, treat them alone, and patients die, FOR THE ARTERIES ARE CARRYING SLOW DEATH TO THE AFFECTED PART, constantly adding fuel brought from these suppurating, pus-laden kidneys which here in our wash-bowl are very putrefaction itself, and which should have been cured first.

But this is not all the kidneys have to do; for you must remember that each adult takes about seven pounds of nourishment every twenty-four hours to supply the waste of the body, which is constantly going on, a waste equal to the quantity taken. This, too, the kidneys have to separate from the blood with all other decomposing matter.

But you say, "My kidneys are all right, I have no pain in the back." Mistaken man! People die of kidney disease of so bad a character that the organs are rotten, and yet they have NEVER THERE HAD A PAIN NOR AN ACHE!

Why? Because the disease begins, as we have shown, in the interior of the kidney, where THERE ARE FEW NERVES OF FEELING to convey the sensation of pain. Why this is so we may never know.

When you consider their great work, the delicacy of their structure, the ease with which they are deranged, can you wonder at the ill-health of our men and women? Health and long life can not be expected when so vital an organ is impaired. No wonder some writers say we are degenerating. Don't you see the great, the extreme importance of keeping this machinery in working order? Could the finest engine do ever a fractional part of this work, without attention from the engineer? Don't you see how dangerous this hidden disease is? It is lurking about to spring upon us, without giving any indication of its presence.

The most skillful physicians cannot detect it at times, FOR THE KIDNEYS THEMSELVES CANNOT BE EXAMINED by any means which we have at our command. Even an analysis of the water, chemically and microscopically, reveals nothing definite in many cases, even when the kidneys are fairly broken down.

Then look out for them, as disease, no matter where situated, is 93 per cent., as shown by after-death examinations, has its origin in the breaking down of these secreting tubes in the interior of the kidney.

As you value health, as you desire long life free from sickness and suffering, give these organs some attention, and thus prevent (as is easily done) all disease.

Warner's Safe Cure, as it becomes year after year better known for its wonderful cures and its power over the kidneys, has done and is doing more to increase the average duration of life than all the physicians and medicines known. Warner's Safe Cure is a true specific, harmless but energetic and agreeable to the taste.

Take it when sick as a cure, and never let a month go by if you need it, without taking a few bottles as a preventive, that the kidneys may be kept in proper order, the blood pure, that health and long life may be your blessing.

Cure for Piles.

PILES are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moistnre like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, after getting warm, is a common attendant. Blind, bleeding and itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching and effecting a permanent cure. PLEASANTRIES.

Kentucky Colonel.—"Waiter, something to drink?"

Waiter.—"Yas, sah; watah, sah?"

Kentucky colonel—"Young man, I said something to drink; I don't want to take a bath."

Nat and Charlie had never seen a snake before, and this morning they came running into the house very much excited.

"O mamma! mamma!" cried Nat, "there's a tail running along out in the garden, without anyshin' on it!"

It was Freddy's first experience with soda water. Drinking his glass with peculiar snake-like eagerness he was aware of a tingling sensation in his nostrils. How do you like it?" inquired his mother, who had stood treat. Freddy thought a moment, wrinkling his nose, as he let go, and then observed: "It tastes like your feet to sleep."

Clara (Bobby's big sister)—"I heard father calling you a little while ago, Bobby."

Bobby—"Did he say Robert or Bobby?"

Clara—"He said Robert."

Bobby (with a serious look in his eyes)—"Then I guess I had better see what he wants."

"Dear Charles" said Mrs. Smith, a young married woman, leaning on her husband's shoulder as he sat at his desk writing.

"Well what the mischief do you want now?" he growled.

"Dear Charles, do you love me as much now as you did when we were first married?"

"I told you so more than 40 times. If you ask me again I'll bounce a paper weight on you. Yes! yes! yes! Are you satisfied now?"

Our agents now at work are making from $50 to $100 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $50 in this time, above all expenses, can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who will hire six or more couriers and work them through subagents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $150 above all expenses, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guarantee, and but two out of every ten that start fail to clear $150 a month, and that one out of every ten clear $300 per month or more. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and those we wish to send to every one out of employment who will send us three 2c cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in your locality before some one else on the same named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and will pay cash for each paper who reads this offer, to send us at once the name and address of each and every one. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered. Do not delay—employment and money. RANNEY MANUFACTURING CO., 148 Grand St., Pittsburg, Pa.

A Nameless Case

My case has been a very curious one for about thirteen years. At intervals of about one week I would be attacked with spells of severe and most excruciating pain, always commencing in the region of my kidneys. The pain would then go upwards and affect my body and head, and seemed to penetrate my very eye-balls, creating the most intense suffering, lasting about eight hours each spell.

I resorted to all kinds of medicine without benefit. Several doctors treated my case, but to no purpose. Finally used B. B. B. Am now entirely cured by three bottles, removing all pain and suffering. Have taken three doses. To the present time no return. Three bottles did not cost a dollar. Am surprised. I do not know what was the matter, neither could any physician name the complaint. The B. B. B. acted finely and powerfully upon my kidneys; my appetite has been splendid and my constitution built up rapidly. R. THOMAS.

Constitution, Ga., May 8, 1886.

UNIMPEACHED INTEGRITY.

1 am 55. Broke down twelve years ago, and have not been able to work since. Have lost proper action of my hips and legs. For five years scrofulous sores have appeared on my scalp and nose, and at the same time my eyesight began to fail, and for three years have been comparatively blind. Have been treated by eminent physicians of different schools without a cure. I have taken five bottles of B. B. B. made at Atlanta, Ga., and all scrofulous sores are gradually healing. Inflammation about my eyes is disappearing, and there is some improvement in my vision. Am very much benefitted and relieved, and begin to feel like a boy again—feel good. My strength and activity are returning, and my hips, legs and feet are getting strong again. B. B. B. is the great quantity of matter that has been poured out through the skin is utterly incredible, often so offensive in odor as to produce nausea. I refer to all business men of Lafayette, Ga. P. PROPHILL.

Harper's Magazine

ILLUSTRATED.

The December Number will begin the Seventy-second Volume of HARPER'S MAGAZINE. Miss Woolson's novel, "East Angels," and Mr. HOWELL'S "Indian Summer"—holding the foremost place in current serial fiction—will run through several numbers, and will be followed by serial stories from H. D. BLACKMORE and Miss. D. M. CRAIK. A new editorial department, discussing topics suggested by the current literature of America and Europe, will be conducted by W. D. HOWELLS, beginning with the January Number. The great literary event of the year will be the publication of a series of papers —taking the shape of a story, and depicting characteristic features of American society as seen at our leading pleasure resorts—written by CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER, and illustrated by M. B. EICHBART. The MAGAZINE will give special attention to American subjects, treated by the best American writers, and illustrated by leading American artists.
